curriculum vitae

Good planning is the ability to integrate a community's vision of itself with the technical expertise to fulfil it. I believe that land use decisions and the economic development that depends on them should be viewed from the "ground up" – to conserve the features and functions of the landscape that ensure the community's continued survival and then to develop those remaining resources that allow the community to flourish. A plan will help bring to fruition the vision the community has of itself. A planner's role is to facilitate this process and provide the necessary guideposts to make sure they get there.

AREAS OF EXPERTISE:

- Strategic thinking - priority setting, SWOT analysis, population projections, project evaluation;
- Consultation - public presentations, group facilitation, community and agency liaison;
- Ecological inventory - site inspection, bio-physical analysis, conservation design;
- Economic analysis - cost/benefit, economic base, location quotient, market size;
- Research - questionnaire design, key informant interviews, surveys, secondary source searches, data analysis.

DETAILED PROJECT HISTORY:

Community Economic Development

By facilitating a strategic approach to CED, I assist the community to move its economic goals forward. I help clarify community priorities by thorough discussions with the local council, opinion leaders, and the community at large. Partnerships, advice and funding can require collaborations with outside agencies to foster success. Taking inventory of the community’s assets, identifying potential obstacles, as well as explicitly outlining “who does what by when” helps everyone become more fully aware of what it will take to implement their ideas. This “living document” provides criteria for the evaluation of the success of the community’s efforts.

2019-2020 Community Economic Development Strategic Plan
Moose Deer Point First Nation
 Prepared a report analysing the economic prospects of the community. Facilitated SWOT exercise and committee meetings. Researched internal and external economic parameters and reviewed background documents. Assisted in the development and analysis of a community survey. Developed a strategic guide for implementation and evaluation.

2011-2012 Job Potential of the Reintroduction of Fibre Flax Production in Mid-western Ontario - Labour Market Analysis
Ministry of Training, Colleges and Universities
 Researched the context and market of flax as part of an assessment of the feasibility a processing enterprise. Also examined this as a source of fibre for bio-products such as textiles & bio-composites, and estimated the number of spin-offs jobs.

2004 Sustainable Power for First Nations – Report
Ontario Sustainable Energy Association
 Co-authored the report on obstacles and assets of First Nations developing sustainable energy projects – jurisdictional issues, survey of First Nation sustainable energy projects, goals, feasibility of working with OSEA.

2002-2004 Georgina Island Wind Farm Proposal
Georgina Island First Nation
 Initiation of a joint project between the Ontario Sustainable Energy Association and the First Nation to study the feasibility of using Georgina Island as a site for renewable energy generation. Facilitated discussion between community leadership, staff, members, as well as with representatives of OSEA and Indian and Northern Affairs Canada. Review of project proposals to ensure that the community’s interests were respected.

2001 Five-year Campground Development Strategy
Beausoleil First Nation
 Preparation of a plan of successive activities based on the community’s Economic Development Strategy, ecological sensitivity and site parameters, for presentation to Chief & Council.

Land Use Development

My approach to Land Use Development is guided by conservation principles. When visiting a site, I gain a first-hand understanding of that particular place. By using additional information to supplement that knowledge, those areas of primary ecological significance and those that present technical challenges to development can be analysed. Aesthetic considerations guide the delineation of natural features that add character and create the beauty inherent in the landscape. Given those priorities, layout and servicing options are then designed.

Land Use Policy

My approach to land use policy is to create workable procedures that can be easily used by those who must administer them. This is particularly important in situations where there are limited resources, such as First Nations, small municipalities, volunteer organizations, etc. While protecting the earth and encouraging entrepreneurship are underlying themes, a good policy must also foster mutual understanding between communities, not just those within them.
